Pima County Libraries seek public input, face cuts☹

The county is looking to find ways to fill a budget gap, libraries in Pima county may soon feel that cut. There are 27 libraries across Pima County with six million visitors every year. They are a great resource for the neighborhoods.

County Administrator Chuck Huckelberry sent out a memo saying due to the county's budget woes some cuts need to be made at the libraries.

Some of the cuts include permanently shutting down four libraries, closing some locations on Sundays, reducing staff and raising a library district tax.

Residents can sound off their opinion on what kind of programs need to be in place. A series of meetings hosted by the Pima County Library System are set for :

Thursday, May 7, 6:30 - 8 p.m., Miller-Golf Links Library, 9640 E. Golf Links Road; and Tuesday, May 12, 6:30 - 8 p.m. (held in Spanish) Valencia Library, 202 W. Valencia Road
